an ample supply of fresh water in the rooms.

The dancing pavillon is also a big drawing card at Saltair. The floor has been resurfaced and placed in first class condition, and there will be continuous dancing on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Montgomery's band will furnish the music, except on Wednesdays and Saturdays, when both the band and orchestra will be brought into requisition. From the new hand stand at the main entrance daily concerts will be given, and sears will be placed in front of the band for the cof the public.

Special attractions for the opening at Special atractions for the opening at Special atractions for the opening at Saltair are the senar twins and the Indian show. The Semar twins are world famed, as were the Slamese twins, but the Semars are said to be even more wonderful than those of Slamese origin. The Semar twins come from the Phillippine Islands, and are joined together by one ligarent. The train service to Saltair will be ample to accommodate the heaviest traffic. A 46-minute schedule will be in effect daily during the season. The hig ship restaurant reopens under the management of J. W. McNary, a categor of national reputation. Prof J. J. McClellan's orchestra will furnish all music for the restaurant. A new feature will be a fine cafeteria, which will be conducted on the platform. conducted on the platform.

THE INDIAN EXHIBITION.

THE INDIAN EXHIBITION.

A band of 25 Indians brought down from Pocatello by Manager Grant will set up its tents at the Hippodrome. Saltair this evening. As the Hippodrome is enclosed, the exhibition will go on no matter what the weather conditions may be. The engagement ends Monday night, and at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon a young Indian couple will be married. Usually the Indians are reluctant to have their marriage ceremonies public, but the present affair has been arranged with the consent of the Indian agent.

LAGOON.

LAGOON.

LAGOON.

For the season's opening day, May 30, Lagoon will appear in more beautiful colors than ever. The grounds are in better shape than ever; the flower beds have been extended and beautified by the gardner, C. H. Boylan, Sr., and the lawns, shade trees and sylvan nooks present a most inviting appearance. Jacob Bergerman, manager of the resort, has had the bathing pool cleaned up and renovated and the bottom has been resanded. He has also installed all sorts of paraphernalla for water sports, including toboggan slide, spring board, trapeze, etc.

The orchestra this year is under the light of Part I. Sardoni and will trapeze, etc.

The orchestra this year is under the direction of Prof. L. Sardoni, and will consist of seven pieces. All the popular music of the day will be produced, and there will be continuous dancing every day from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 10:45 in the evening.

The cafe this year is under the management of Mrs. Joseph Sands, widow of Joseph Sands, the well known caterer who conducted the cafe hast year. Mrs. Sands will be assisted by Earl Baughman as head waiter. Trout and chicken dinners will be dally specialties.

The floors of the dancing pavilion

The floors of the dancing pavilion and the skating rink have been resurfaced and placed in first-class condition.

One of the striking features at Lagoon this year is the lighting system. The resort has installed its own electric plant, and there are 10,000 electric lights on the ground this year, making the resort lights as day. This is five times more lights as day. This is five times more lights than ever carried by the resort in any previous year. A transformer house has been built on the grounds, and many beautiful electric signs have been installed. As a central piece for the lighting system stands the big United States flag, which blazed out from under the monument at the head of Main street during the G. A. R. encampment held in this city last year.

Another feature in which the management takes a just pride, is the fishing in the lagoon. The water swarms with beautiful black bass and mountain trout, and after the 15th of June, when the fishing law is up, the public may fish in the lake at any time and without hindrance.

The crowning feature of the Lagoon trip this year, of course is the ride on the electric road, which has just been completed by the Sult Loke and Orden Railway company. All the cinders, dust and smoke of the old steam engines have been done away with and the ride is a pleasant one at any hour

At 3 o'clock the cadets, handsomely dressed in white duck trousers and in shirts with rolled up sleeves and black belts, formed to greet the governor. The usual salute of 17 guns was fired by a section of the First field battery and the governor was escorted to the reviewing stand by Lieut. Frank Manning of the Utah bettery, a former cadet captain acting as aide.

Immediately, the battalion separated and went through various drills as set forth in Butt's manual of calisthenics, the trumpet corps accompanying.

Then something unique occurred: the girls in squads of from 75 to 300 gave the first public demonstration in the

PRESIDENT YOUNG AS HE LOOK ED IN THE FIFTIES.

This splendid and hitherto unpublished portrait of President Young is reproduced from an original daguerrotype now in the possession of B. Morris Young. According to the owner the picture was taken in the early 50s, by Marzena Cannon, the pioneer photographer, on the occasion of some public celebration at the Mill Farm, now tiberty park, probably the occasion of the dedication of the Chase mill, which still stands on the central drive near the pond. In the original daguerrotype appears Mrs. Margaret Pierce Young, Morris's mother, who, standing in the ficinity when the president was about to be "taken," was invited by him to sit by his side during the process. She compiled, and was later presented by her husband with the only copy that was made, which she carefully treasured all her life. This is the first time this excellent representation of President Young as he appeared in the prime of life, has ever been published.

The leading attraction at the Salt Palace, however, will no doubt be the bicycle races in the evening. Manager Heagren has secured all the best professional riders in the world, with the exception of Frank Kramer, who rode here one or two seasons ago. The saucer track has been fixed up for the season, and some fast riding and good sport are promised. Among the professional riders secured for the saucer this year are the following, most of them being well known to Salt Lakers: N. C. Hopper, Iver Lawson, H. A. Clarke, Floyd McFarland, Hardy Downing, T. D. Morgan, Ray F. Duer, Walter Demara, E. A. Pye, J. E. Achorn, Jack Burris, S. G. Wilcox, Fred Keefe, Brownie Carslake, Oliver Dorlan, T. D. Devonovitch, F. E. Whistler, Steve Senhouse, Gordon Waller and T. M. Samuelson. Some of these riders have been brought from the ends of the earth, and some of them come with unbeaten records. Besides the list of professionals, there will be 22 amateurs who will figure in some interesting racing. leading attraction at the Salt by the faculty in honor of the dramatic club and debating teams of the University of Utah. Judge Orlando W. Fowers acted as toastmaster, assisting materially in keeping the banqueters in hilarious spirits.

A feature of the occasion was the presentation to Miss Maud May Bahcock, in charge of the dramatic work at the University of Utah, of a beautiful pin containing 16 pearls, one for each member in the dramatic club. The presentation speech was made by Roger W. Powers, manager of the University Dramatic club the past year.

The following responded to toasts: Mathonihah Thomas, "Value of Forensic Work;" Mrs. Alta Jensen, "Tribulations of Trying Out for the Cast;" Jennie Ryan, member of this year's cast, "Something Original;" Vivian Tolhurst, member of this year's cast, "Barnstorming Honeymoons;" A. Blaine Röberts, debating cosch, "An Apology for Debaters;" Hugo Anderson, captain of this year's debating teams, "The Utah Debaters."

Speeches were made by the Hon, Wuldemar Van Cott, regent of the university; Dale H. Parke, chairman of the banquet committee, and Judge Powers.
